Yet Another Pagan Newsletter

A publication of the Pagan Community Council of Ohio (PCCO)

Vol. 2, No. 3

Imbolc 2009

A Brief History of the PCCO

As remembered by Michael Dorn

Twenty years ago after a series of kitchen table discussions, in 1989, the solitary pagans of Central Ohio banded together with a decision to act as a community. Out of those discussions came the Pagan Community Council of Central Ohio (PCCCO) or as some came to call it – P3CO. Founded to provide community services (ecumenical, social and educational) for Central Ohio witches, druids, pagans and followers of other alternative religions, P3CO has been through several fits and starts in reaching out to those who can best be served by the organization.

Formed as a 501(c)(3) educational group, PCCCO filed for and was granted recognition by the IRS in 1991. Initially conceived as an umbrella organization that would support smaller groups who wished to reach out to the Pagan Community; this did not happen, PCCCO instead began offering events and a newsletter (YAPN – Yet Another Pagan Newsletter) to members and non-members. These events became very popular and P3CO changed the name to PCCO – Pagan Community Council of Ohio.

Some of the earliest events organized by PCCO were the Kenny and Tzipora concerts, of which there were two. Kenny and Tzipora Klein were a staple within the pagan community in the late '80's and early '90's. Traveling from venue to venue, Kenny and Tzipora were like the troubadours of old. Their songs and their path (Blue Star) were the message shared with the pagan community. True to their minstrel duties, Kenny & Tzipora helped open communication between local pagan groups that previously had no knowledge of each others existence. (This is where I came in.)

Soon PCCO started holding festivals and other events, the first festival held by PCCO was Shadowmas during Samhain 1991, Summerset and The Greening came along in 1992 and 1993, respectively. Summerset over Labor Day weekend and, initially, The Greening was held close to Beltaine over the first weekend of May. Soon The Greening was moved to Memorial Day weekend to avoid the need to dress warmly and the removal of ice off of tents most mornings. Camp O'Bannon Outpost was the site that PCCO rented for events at that time; this site had only two permanent buildings – a shelter house and a washroom. Tenting was not an option, but a necessity!

As time passed, PCCO added smaller events; marking the Wheel of the Year - Springbourne at Ostara, Brigid's Fire at Imbolc, Winterfire at Yule and once, Drumspirit in mid-July. Drumspirit was conceived to be a pagan music festival, but failed to meet expectations.

Locations for all these events have changed over the years as well. Summerset has moved from a skiing resort to Al Trusty's Christmas tree farm (“...that's no ordinary fire!”), to Camp O'Bannon Outpost (a favorite location) to Camp Wyandot (where the hills were a challenge). Lately, Summerset has been held at Camp Crooked Lane, Camp Graham and most recently, Camp Clifton. Winter events have been held at Camp O'Bannon Main Camp, Camp Wakatomica and Camp Mary Orton. Other events have been held at Camp Libbey near Defiance, Lake Camp near Oberlin and other locations.

Each event brings many memories, from events affected by weather such as “The Drowning” (The Greening 1995) to personal losses and remembrances, i.e., Leslie Dauterman's Memorial Service (Summerset 2000) over the years. Sometimes the campground provided memorable occurrences, other times festival attendees were most memorable.

Featured guests at these events over the years have included Ted Andrews, Issac Bonewits, Raven Grimassi, Patricia Mongahan (several times), Kerr Chullian, M. Macha Nightmare (twice), Jerri Hildebrand, Chris Forrester (from the UK) and Selena Fox. I apologize to anyone I may have forgotten. Most events also featured several local presenters to lead the workshops, they are too numerous to list here.

Pulling these events together were Stacy Brian Bartley and Leslie Dauterman. Mary Williams, Elric Windstar (later, Morningstar) and a cast of others, including myself, played the supporting roles necessary for the execution of these events.

PCCO has lost good people over the years. Individuals have moved away, found other interests or had personality conflicts with others are among many other excuses. The ones I miss the most are those who have crossed over to the Summerlands - Leslie Dauterman and Elric Morningstar had served as PCCO officers and effected change in the organization. Rick (Lord Spam) Allen's sudden passing had a stifling effect on event planning. More recently, members whose presence is missed include Terri Yutzy, Julie Moore and Charles Swan.

From The President by Silver

Greetings!

There's a lot of changes going on with the PCCO. At Summerset last year, there was a powerful & moving Phoenix Ritual. Well, it is time to rise from the ashes!

 The PCCO will be undergoing re-organization. This does not mean we're just going to put on a fresh coat of paint & pat ourselves on the back for a job well done. We will be changing the name. Changing the Bylaws. Changing the SOP. There will be a great deal of work going on over the next few months. At this point in time, the transition is scheduled to transpire June 1st, 2009.

 This change is being done to help give the PCCO a clean slate from which to start anew. To help us make new friends in the community. To help us repair past damage to bridges with other groups & individuals. And most importantly, to help us best serve the needs of our friends & neighbors in the Ohio Pagan Community. (The reason we were created in the first place!)

 A new Ad Hoc committee has been formed to aid in this transition. The PCCO Re Organizational Cmte will have their first meeting Feb 22. Time & Location TBA. ANY CURRENT PCCO MEMBER IN GOOD STANDING IS ENCOURAGED TO BE A PART OF THIS COMMITTEE & HELP SHAPE THE FUTURE OF THIS ORGANIZATION. Members wishing to participate need to email me by 2/15. This will be a closed committee & will not be open to new members after 2/15/09. The email address is: pccopresident@ yahoo.com .

 THERE WILL BE A GREENING! Come help the PCCO celebrate our 20th Birthday! Camp Graham...May 22-25 2009. Details to follow in the coming days & weeks.

 ALL PCCO MEMBERS AND SPONSORS who were in good standing as of 9/1/08 will have the option of having their their memberships transferred to the new group & extended to 9/1/09. If your membership naturally expires after 9/1/09, it will of course be honored. (Yes, this means that the PCCO Membership discounts will apply for The Greening!)

Anyone having questions, comments, points of clarification are welcome & encouraged to email me at: pccopresident@ yahoo.com

From The Secretary by Three Feathers

The ground has been plowed and the seeds planted. Yes it has been a strenuous year but Grandfather Sun will return and shine His light on a new time for the PCCO. It is time to mend the fences, hoe the weeds and nurture the new growth. At the last membership meeting, I felt a new sense of dedication and cooperation among the attendees. What to an individual may seem an impossible task is easily accomplished when each one of a group does even a little to further the reaching of the goal.

So what is the goal for the PCCO? Read the Statement of Purpose for the organization and decide within your heart what you can do to further that purpose. Then, with a clear sense of openness and cooperation, take personal responsibility and accomplish the task you have set for yourself.

We are a Spiritual organization that exists in a real world. Challenges are to be faced openly and with communication among all. Working together, those challenges become not mountains to struggle over, but opportunities from which to learn and grow. To quote an old saw, "What don't kill us makes us stronger."

With the input and guidance of our elected and appointed leadership and the Great Spirit/Goddess to whom we all look to, we, as the PCCO can be a strong and growing organization dedicated to living those values that will lead our community to a more loving and nurturing world, safer for our children and our children's children.

"I became a Warrior so that my son could be a merchant and his son could be an artist." What we do today affects seven generations from now. What future would you want for your seventh great grandchild? Think about that and then act.

Blessings
Three Feathers

From The Editor by Jim Poltrone

Many of you don't know this, but 2009 is the 20th year of the PCCO's existence. That makes us one of the oldest pagan organizations in the United States. Since this is our 20th anniversary, we have great things planned for this, our anniversary year. Stay tuned to the PCCO website and this newsletter for details as these events are announced.

One of the changes that started last fall was the resurrection of this newsletter. This is the third issue of the new YAPN. Some of you have already asked questions about the newsletter. I will provide answers to these questions.

How often is it published? My goal is to publish quarterly, around Imbolc (February 1), Beltane (May 1), Lammas (August 1), and Samhain (October 31). Deadlines are typically two weeks before the target publication date.

What type of articles are you looking for? Anything that would be of interest to the Ohio pagan community. Please submit them in plain-text or Microsoft word format.

Are paper copies available? In an effort to save the PCCO money and be more ecologically-minded, paper copies of YAPN are available only on request. Please contact me if you would prefer a paper copy of the newsletter.

Are back issues available? Past issues (from Mabon 2008 onwards) are available on the PCCO website, in PDF format. We are working on scanning the previous issues, and may reprint some of the articles in the current incarnation of the newsletter.

Who do I send submissions to? You can send them to me via email to yapneditor@gmail.com, or via snail-mail to the PCCO post office box.

Spell to find new friends by Heather Killen

Items needed: pink taper, a rose quartz, a yellow rose
Time: Friday night of a waxing moon

Cast as usual; dress candle as you see most fit, holding taper open heart and brow; surround yourself with pink light for friendship or yellow light for success. See yourself meeting new people, pump the candle with energy, place the candle and rose quartz together light it and chant:

"Open my heart to friends true and fast good relationships for a lifetime last true of spirit and alike of mind, good new friends help me find"

Bury any left over wax or wick, place the rose near your front door, computer or phone and carry the rose quartz with you when you go out and about.
